A Note From Our Pastor

My Dear Parishioners,

This weekend we celebrate the Most Holy Body and Blood of Jesus which is a great reminder to us of the gift our Lord has given us in the Most Holy Eucharist. Christ's close presence, most evident in the Eucharist, gives us strength to fulfill our life's mission and discover the happiness He wishes for us.

We would do well to take a moment after Communion to recognize and reflect on this precious gift our Lord makes available to us every week. The time after Communion gives us the time to pray a special prayer of thanksgiving. The Eucharist gives us the charity to live out in the world and remember that by receiving it we are in Communion with our Lord, the saints who enjoy God's presence in heaven and all those who receive Him in the world. That is a basic belief that Jesus is truly present in the Eucharist - His Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity - and by receiving it we become a part of the mystical body of Christ. It is such a shame that some choose not to believe this and see it as a sign.

In this era when science is king, some are tempted to belittle the mysterious and miraculous aspects of our Christian Faith. And yet, the mysteries and the miracles are still real. Just because God doesn't fit into a test tube doesn't mean God doesn't exist. The Church is a wise Mother. She keeps us humble. She reminds us that God is bigger than our limited human minds. Today she gives us one of the biggest of those reminders, the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ, Corpus Christi.

Peace,
Fr. Mike

Questions and Answers About the Traditional Latin Mass

by Rev. H. Todd Carter

Why does the priest sprinkle water on the congregation before every High or Solemn High Mass that is celebrated on a Sunday ?

This action is called the Asperges or the Rite of Sprinkling. It is, strictly speaking, not part of the Mass but a preparation for the Mass. The word Asperges is from the Latin word meaning "to wash" or "to sprinkle." It is also the first word of the psalm which is said while the rite is prayed. In this rite, the celebrant of the Mass dips the aspergillum (the metal object with which he sprinkles) into the holy water and sprinkles the water on the altar, on all those who serve the Mass and then on the congregation.

This ceremony reminds us of our Baptism and calls the protection of God through His Holy Angel on all who are sprinkled. This rite should take place before the principal Mass of Sunday.

V. Praised be Jesus Christ... R. Now and forever!

*Factus est Dóminus protéctor meus,
Et edúxit me in latitúdinem:
Salvum me fecit, quóniam vóluit me.*

The Lord became my protector,
and He brought me forth to a large place:
He saved me, because He was well pleased with me. [Ps 17:2,3]

Our Introit [entrance song] directs us to know that God will protect us and protect us – with the understanding that our lives should be a pleasing offering to Him. Our Epistle from the first letter of St. John assures us that the world will offer hate to those who follow the difficult road of the Christian life, the reminder is that we are victors with Jesus Christ over sin and death – we simply have to follow Him and show this discipleship in our lives. Love is the binding force of life – and if there is hate, then the spiritual life is killed. And John is very pointed here: πᾶς ὁ μισῶν τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ ἀνθρωποκτόνος ἐστίν [pas ho misōn ton adelphon autou anthrōpoktonos estin = Everyone hating his brother is a murderer]. A murderer does not have eternal life abiding in them. We, who wish to attain and keep eternal life are to be people of action – in loving others as Jesus loved us.

Our Gospel of today is the parable of the wedding feast. It is an allegorical parable that Jesus uses to underscore the eternal wedding feast of heaven – between Christ [the Bridegroom] and the Church [His bride]. The Israelites were the first to be called into covenant with God; Jesus has come to ransom the many by His Blood – however, most rejected Him. They are the invited guests who came up with ‘excuses’ not to attend the feast. Excuses for not following the invitation of Christ to the heavenly feast would certainly be a righteous cause of condemnation by God. The slaves are those who work for the salvation of souls, and it is clear that all are welcome to join in the feast – as long as they do as the Bridegroom instructs. And Luke is pointed - ἀνάγκασον [anankason - compel (them)] – if necessary, the servants are to drag people into the feast – the Father’s hall shall be filled! People shy away from suffering.

However, Teresa of Ávila and John of the Cross had a tremendous desire for suffering. They were able to transform suffering into the hallmark of their relationship with God: by desiring suffering and by understanding it, they were able to embrace it as proof of Divine Love, reinforcing their self-confidence and strength in relationship with the Master. The Carmelite knows the goal is union with God, and that to progress in the spiritual life toward God involves suffering; however, the reward is well worth the effort. To Jesus Christ be all glory forever!

“The soul is now determined to take no other Bridegroom than our Lord, but He disregards its desires for its speedy espousals, wishing that these longings should become still more vehement and that this good, which far excels all other benefits, should be purchased at some cost to itself. And although for so great a gain all that we must endure is but a poor price to pay, I assure you, daughters, that this pledge of what is in store for us is needed to inspire us with courage to bear our crosses.”
